My "Aunt Polly."

BY JENNY MARSH.

My Aunt Polly! my dear Aunt Polly! what a my Aunt Polity! my dear Aunt Polity! what a good old lady she was! She was an old maid, to be sure—and you of my readers who have never been blessed with a relative of that kind, cannot appreciate true worth. Aunt Polly was in the grease, when trying to catch Jacob to punish him—how Shadrich screamed with the pain know but she night have been, for those faded eyes might have been once more lustrous, and that sharp peaked nose had more of the Grecian curve, and that shrill clarior voice more of a melodious swell. If this was really the case, she had ample reason for admonishing my pret-she had ample reason for admonishing my pretty sister against pride and vain glory.

My Annt Polly was an industrious lady. I don't mean a gossip—oh, no! She used to rise bright and early in the morning, set things to rights, give orders to Biddy the maid—and then, if it was summer she enclosed her head in a prodigious sun-bonnet, took the basket in her hand, and went out to gather herbs. And her herb closet! it would have done your eyes good to see it. There was boneset, and sweet fern, sare and tansey, smart-weed, and catnin, for sage, and tansey, smart-weed, and camip, &c., all arranged in alphabetical order. And when any of us little ones had an attack of measles, whooping cough, or any of the ills that flesh is heir to, with what a stately step would Aunt Polly proceed to that closet, and bring back the

But I am going to tell you a little incident in the life of my Aunt, in which my brothers, sis-ters, and myself were engaged. It was a sad thing to her, and a still sadder one to us, who took a most active part in the ceremonies.

Aunt Polly is dead now; she died many years ago. "at an advanced age," as the obituary said. If she was alive to day, and was to read my story. I know that she would not laugh—no, not she-but would draw her facedown longer than ever, and say-"I should think the remembrance of that night would nake you more

The little ones all wished that Aunt Poly would get married—that she would take herold red chest out of our play-room and leave us the herb closet for a doll's house We debated upon the probability of such an occurrence, and the grand results that would follow, for some time until our patience grew weary, and we determined to "bring matters around" ourselves. We met, one summer's day, behind the currant bushes, to consider the proposition of "marrying Aunt Polly." I will not give a full account of the convention, but a short sketch must suffice Jacob. my oldest brother, said genial, and Uncle Abe thought it advisable to pass." Dead silence reigned for a few moments, air himserfa little, after several months confinement to the house.

But Grinny was not "very bright." for he would sit all day upon the fence and whittle and whistle, which his head out of the uncomfortable fix in which the young scamp had placed it. Having succeeded in seeing daylight once more, he scolded his nephew heartly; but all he made by it was the joyous laughter of Charley, who, for the sake of his back, kept at a respectful distance from a certain stick, which shook very ominously in the nervous hand of Unle Abe.

It was not many minutes before a truce was and whittle and whistle, which was rather simple employment for a youth of twenty-six or seven. He had got the "mitten" from every unmarried woman in the place but Aunt Polly; and we thought, if satisfactory arrangements could be taken on both side, the old red chest would be taken from our play-room—the herb closet placed under our jurisdiction, and "Grinny Johnson" be placed under the strict discipline of Aunt Polly. was rather that evening by moonlight, in the garden, and offer his heart, hand, and fortune. My sister. Prudence Betsey, was Aunt's favorite, so she was made a delegate to arrange that side of the Question. She found Aunt in the kitchen, frythe collar, which she carried by pansfull into the cellar, where, by some process unknown to us, it was to be transformed into lard.

"Oh, Aunty!" said Prudence, "Grinny John-

"Oh! I know very well what it is," said she. with an important toss of the head; "and guess 'Grinny' can tell me whether they were tender or not I have suspected him all the time; but if he wants to confess, I'll hear him." Prudence was at a loss for a reply; she feared that our hopes were blasted. "Well, Aunty," said she, smiling, "he wants you to meet him in the garden, at half-past eight this evening" Aunt hesitated a moment, and then said, "Yes. I'lgo; his guilt seeks the cover of dark gracefully, his fancy glowed with the idea, how deligiful! it would be to have the dear creatures fondling on him, and with their tender glances endeavoring to do the agreeable. As he meditated his heart softened, and he began to feel a squeamish, womanish sensibility diffused over his feelings, and he thought he would faint with propriety the first time a lady squeezed his hand.

Rap, rap, rap, sounded at the door.

Samuel peoped through the venitian blinds.

'Mercy!' exclaimed he, 'if there isn't Miss Jones—and I in dishabille, and looking like a fright—good gracious! must go and fix myself.' As he left the room, Miss Jones entered, and with a composed air intimated that she could wait. She was a firm believer in woman's rights, and now that season was propitious, she determined to take advantage thereof, and do a little courting on her own hook. It was one of woman's privileges which had been usurped by the tyrant man, and she determined to assert her rights in spite of the hollow formalities of the false system of society.

On Sam's return to the room, she exclaimed: Dearest, how beautiful you look, accompanying her words with a glance of undisguised ad-

Over 800 Acres of Land Should the size be an objection, I will divide it into TWO TRACTS, and sell them sepaately. The Land is in excellent condition for cultivation, being all under good fence, and thoroughly set in bine grass. The Dwelling house on the Farm is large and comfortable;

the Out-houses new and complete. All who are in search of first-rate Land would do well to call and examine for themselves. This Farm was advertised last fall, and a report got abroad that I would not sell on any terms. I take this method of contradicting it, and as-suring all who wish to purchase, that I am determined to sell.

AYER'S PILLS,

A cure of all Bilious diseases — Costiveness, Indi-gestion. Jaundice, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Fevera-Gout, Humors, Nervousness, Irritability, Inflamosa-tions, Headache, Pains in the Breast, Side, Back, and Limbs, Female Complaints, &c., &c. Indeed, very few are the diseases in which a Purgative Medi-cine is not more or less required, and much sick-ness and suffering might be prevented, if a harm-less but effectual Cathartic were more freely used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails: besides it soon generates series and No person can feet went white a costive mont of body prevails; besides it soon generates serious and often fatal discusses, which might have been avoided by the timely and judicious use of a goe 1 purgative. This is alike true of Colds, Feverish symptoms, and Elilous derangements. They all tend to become or Bilious derangements. They all tend to become or produce the deep seated and formidable distempers which load the hearses all over the land. Hence a reliable family physic is of the first importance to the public health, and this Pill has been perfected with consummate skill to meet that demand. An extensive trial of its virtues by Physicians, Professors, and Patients, has shown results surpassing any thing hitherto known of any medicine. Cures have been effected beyond belief, were they not substantiated by persons of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth.

Among the eminent gentlemen to whom we are Among the eminent gentlemen to whom we are llowed to refer for these facts, are PROF. VALENTINE MOTT, the distinguished Surcon of New York City.

C. A. Davis, M. D., Sup't and Surgeon of the United States Marine Hospital, at Chelsea, Mass.

Did space permit, we could give many hundred such names, from all parts where the Pills have been used, but evidence even more convincing than the certificates of these eminent public men is shown in their effects upon trial.

These Pills, the result of long investigation and study, are offered to the public as the best and most complete which the present state of medical cience can afford. They are compounded not of the drugs themselves, but of the medicinal virtues the drugs themselves, but of the medicinal virtues only of Vegetable remedies, extracted by chemical process in a state of purity, and combined together in such a manner as to insure the best results. This in such a manner as to insure the best results. This system of composition for medicines has been found in the Cherry Pectoral and Pills both, to produce a more efficient remedy than had hitherto been obtained by any process. The reason is perfectly obvious. While by the old mode of composition, every medicine is burdened with more or less of acrimonious and injurious qualities, by this each individual virtue only that is desired for the curative effect is present. All the inert and obnoxious qualities of each substance employed are left behind, the curative virtues only being retained. Hence it is self-evident the effects should prove as they have proved more purely remedial, and the Pills a surer.

self-evident the effects should prove as they have proved more purely remedial, and the Pills a surer, more powerful antidote to disease than any other medicine known to the world.

As it is frequently expedient that my medicine should be taken under the counsel of an attending Physician, and as he could not properly judge of a remedy without knowing its composition. I have supplied the accurate Formulæ by which both my Pectoral and Pills are made to the whole body of Practitioners in the United States and British Angel. Practitioners in the United States and British An ELSH & RUSSEL have the largest stock of GUNS ever brought to this clace, and will sell them remarkably low. Their life consists in their mystery. I have no mysteries.

The composition of my preparations is laid open to all men, and all who are competent to judge on the subject freely acknowledge their convictions of their intrinsic merits. The Cherry Pectoral was pronounced by scientific men to be a wonderful medicine before its effects were known. Many eminent Physicians have declared the same thing of my Pills, and even more confidently, and are willing to certify that their anticipations were more than realized by their effects upon trial.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of body, restoring their irregular action to health, a by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Being sugar wrapped they are pleasant to take, and being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

INTEMPERANCE AT THE SOUTH .- A New Orleans paper makes the following statement:

During the last year there was expended something near $30,000,000 for intoxicating drinks in this State; $20,000,000 of this was expended in New Orleans alone. There were ade about 16,000 arrests, directly and indirectly, for drunkenness; in the city and State, about 400 deaths by delirium tremens; about 75 murders, besides a host of other crimes.— Over 1,000 have been reduced to vagrancy and auperism; the resources of the State have been ippled; thousands have been kept out of employment; society at large has been seriously, deeply damaged in all its relations; the health and energies of some of our best citizens have
